COLUMBIA, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY June 9 1920.

NUMBER 33.

OIL NEWS.

After a short shut down awaiting the arrival of casing, a good supply having been received, the Carnahan Oil Company operations at Zion's Church is progressing favorably, and some encouraging reports are expected from there at an early date.

The Golden Rule Oil Syndicate has just been formed at Creelsboro, Ky., and is composed of Mr. W. A. Armstrong, Creelsboro, Dr. R. M. Armstrong, Augusta, Ga., and Mr. Morton E. Weldy, a prominent oil man of Bowling Green, Ky. The Messrs. Armstrong are the owners of a large boundary of valuable land in the southern portion of Russell county, lying along and near Cumberland river, and it is the purpose of the Syndicate to operate on the Armstrong holdings. Development work will start just as soon as drilling machinery can be gotten on the ground.

Mr. Floyd R. Allen, accompanied by his wife, was here during the past week in the interests of the Allen people of Allentown, New York. These people have considerable acreage in Adair county, they have ample capital back of them, and they are so favorably impressed with this section as promising to be one of the rich oil fields of the country they are arranging to begin an aggressive drilling campaign here at an early date. Mr. and Mrs. Allen contemplate spending considerable time in Columbia.

General Manager Weldy of the McMeed Oil Company, returned here the latter part of the week from a trip to the Russell county field and he reported drilling operations again in full swing, after an unavoidable shut down for a few days, and the work of installing pumps, tanks, etc., are progressing rapidly. They have just added a 250 barrel tank to their storage capacity, and they are now in a position to take care of a good volume of production. Mr. Weldy also advises that the residue of the stock in the Company now unsold will be sold only to present stockholders, owing to the fact that it is now considered worth considerably more than par, and the Company feels original purchasers should reap the benefit of same.

Dr. Frank D. Hines, President of the Southern Oil and Refining Company, Denver, Colorado, together with Mrs. Hines arrived in Columbia early last week and since that time has been very busy looking after the company, holdings and development work in Adair and Cumberland counties. Dr. Hines is interested in some fifty different oil companies and he is one of the well posted and prominent oil men of the country. He has unbounded faith in a fine pool of oil being found in this section, and he is backing his belief by spending money to assist in locating it. They are arranging to drill a number of wells in Adair and adjoining territory. Dr. Hines is also very much interested in the production of oil by extracting it from shale, and he predicts that this method of production will be in operation here at no distant date, and that it will prove to be very profitable. This system is no doubt new to many of the readers of the News, and I would like to tell them something of it, but space forbids me giving any details at this time.

There will be a singing at Egypt the third Sunday in this month in the afternoon. All parties interested in music are urged to be present, as we hope to devise some plan to standardize a song book for Adair county.

J. M. Wolford, I. M. Grimsley, G. W. Pike, Committee.

Shooting at Purdy.

A dispute over some logs resulted in a little shooting at Purdy, this county, last Thursday. From the best information before us the trouble came up in this way. E. M. Burton and Elsie Young owned some saw logs and they hauled to the side of the road and unloaded on Larkin Burton's land. E. M. Burton arrived upon the scene with a team and hands to remove them. Larkin came up and forbade the removal. E. M. Burton paid no attention to him, and Larkin said he intended to see that they were not removed, went home and returned with his shot gun. Whereupon E. M. Burton, after some words had passed, Larkin making a demonstration with his gun, fired a thirty-two revolver at him, Larkin jumping behind a post. The parties were before court Saturday, and E. M. Burton was held over in the sum of one hundred dollars.

Will Remain Here.

Rev. J. L. Lloyd, who was making his arrangements to remove to California, and had advertised his personal property for sale, reconsidered before the day of sale and decided to remain in the vicinity of Columbia. Last week he bought of Mr. E. F. Mullinix the latter's home place and four lots in the Fair grounds. He is now in possession, having removed to the Mullinix home last week. We are informed that the consideration for this property was $2,000. Mr. Mullinix will remove to Cumberland county. We regret to lose him and his daughter, who are excellent people, and we are glad that Mr. Lloyd concluded to remain in our midst.

J. W. Burbridge, Gadberry, Ky.

Mr. W. R. Lyon, a genial member of the Buchanan Lyon Company, is really too good to the editor of this paper. He never gets hold of anything that is extra good but he remembers us. We appreciate Mr. Lyon's partiality, and stand ready to favor him whenever the opportunity presents itself. His brother, Mr. R. J. Lyon, has been our steadfast friend from his youth up, and we want him know that we are not unmindful of his favoritism.

The District Conference of the Methodist Church, recently held at Greensburg, was very largely attended, preachers of all the charges in the district being present but one. Rev. T. J. Wade, of this place, presided over the gathering, and during the session there were many interesting addresses. The reports evinced prosperity in all the churches embraced in the district. The good citizens of Greensburg did themselves proud in entertaining.

The Lebanon Enterprise announces the marriage of Miss Margaret Hill, of Russell Springs, to Mr. Dan McChord, of Lebanon, the ceremony being performed at Lexington by Rev. G. H. Porter, Thursday of last week. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hill, and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John McChord. He is one of Lebanon's well known young men.

WANTED.—Motormen and Conductors for the City Lines. We teach you the work and offer steady employment. Wages 40c to 45c an hour. Apply or write, Superintendent, Indianapolis Street Railway Company, Room 814 Traction Building, Indianapolis, Ind. 32-4t

Mr. Jo Cor, who was run over by an automobile in Louisville, some weeks ago, had his limb amputated last Friday. He is supposed to be doing very well. He is a brother of Mr. J. W. Coy and Mrs. W. T. McFarland.

Mr. John B. Watson has purchased of Sam Stevenson the latter's stock of groceries, etc., in White City. He is now in possession.

My hills are due and I must have what you owe me. So please come and settle.

Commendable.

When a young man concludes in his own mind to make a dust in the world and keeps everlastingly busy, he soon attracts the attention of the active business men of the community, and he is spoken of as a young man of worth, one who intends to be known in the business affairs of the town and county in which he lives.

Such is the start made by John D. Lowe, Jr., of this place. After he graduated from the County High School, he went to Lexington, finished his education and returned home and immediately commenced farming, his chosen profession, working and managing his father's farm, adjoining the town residence. He was a success, and in two years he concluded that there was not land enough in the home tract, and he bought the Scott Montgomery plantation, over one hundred acres, not far from his home. He is busy every day in the week growing corn, tobacco, etc., etc., and also handling some stock. As a result of his energy and determination he keeps a bank account, at all times having something to sell from his industry.

Such a course meets the commendation of all men who are trying to make the community a better place in which to live.

We have been watching young Lowe's procedure and have admired his pluck. He is now about 22 years old, and something out of the ordinary will have to be placed upon the boards to deter him from his daily avocation. He is a young man climbing in the financial world rung by rung.

"When Horace Greeley said 'Go West Young Man,' he little dreamed that the pioneers in the second largest industry in the United States would track into the far East and the South to gather materials for some 20,000,000 small car tires that today are carrying the various makes of light cars over every road that men travel in pursuit of business and pleasure. 'Yet it is a fact,' declares Buchanan Lyon Company of the local Goodyear Service Station, 'that the Pneumatic tire was made possible by men who went east for rubber and south for cotton fabric. The ingenuity of man has since wrought wonders in the cultivation of these two essentials in tire production.'

May Build Railroad.

The following is taken from the Louisville Times:

Greensburg, Ky., June 3.—Talk of a new railroad to Greensburg has again been revived. Before the war it was thought that a road would be built connecting this town with the L. & N. Much work was being done on the Greensburg Branch of the L. & N., to old bridge and bridges, straightening curves and general improvements before the war. Latest reports are that a road is to be built from Ogeida, Tenn., by way of Mounticello, Jamestown and Columbia to Greensburg. Railroad men of Cincinnati, connected with the proposed Ogeida & Western railroad, have been over the proposed route. They left the impression that the road would be built in the near future. Such a road would open up a large scope of territory that now has no railroad.

Met En route.

Mr. G. R. Reed and wife, Miss Frances Reed and Miss Eva Walker stopped three and a half hours in Danville while en route to George town, last week. They visited Mrs. Nannie Reed, the widow of the late Dr. Geo. J. Reed, and found her in a very feeble condition. She is close to 81 years old. They also visited Dr. B. T. Wood and wife. It will be remembered that some weeks ago this paper reported that Mrs. Wood had met with the misfortune—getting one of her hips broken. They found her sitting up for the first time since the accident, but it will take time for her to gain her full strength. At Georgetown they met Mrs. Zora Rowe, her son, Kinnaid, and a number of other friends.

A Distressing Accident.

Last Tuesday, at Roley, this county, Mr. Henry Roberts attempted to cross Casey Creek with a wagon and team of horses. In the wagon was his twelve year old daughter. Mr. Roberts thought the stream was fordable, but he got into a whirlpool, and the girl and team were drowned. Mr. Roberts, in an attempt to save his child, barely escaped with his life.

There is not a more reliable insurance agency in Kentucky than Reed Bros., located in this place. The firm is composed of G. R. and E. W. Reed, both splendid business men. They are reliable in every particular, and responsible for their statements. They write both fire and life, presenting the merits of their companies truthfully—would not misrepresent in order to get your business, hence they have no callers with a statement that your companies are not as you represented. They are home men and should be patronized over foreign agents, who usually tell anything in order to get your business.

It is understood that the following sales have been made in town, but they have not been closed by deed, but will, more than likely, this week. E. E. Cheatham will transfer the property where he now lives, to W. E. Morgan, of Amandaville, J. H. Young will transfer the residence known as the Newby property, to E. E. Cheatham, and D. E. Phelps has sold his home to Mr. Sale Coffey through the Kemper agency, for $4,000.

Guy Atkins, a little son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Nell, while playing with other children, last Sunday week, fell upon a rake, the teeth penetrating his right knee, which caused the little fellow much suffering. He is about well at this writing.

Swinebroad, the real estate man has two additional "ads" in the News this week. He is a real estate man who knows the business. He reaches the people and never fails to sell. If you are looking for a good farm, read his advertisements.

Serious Accident.

Last Saturday Carl Wilson, seventeen years old, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wilson, Cane Valley, left home with his shot gun, with the view of killing hawks. After he had shot a time or two he started on his return, carrying his gun between his overalls and trousers. In some way the gun was discharged, the whole load passing through his right foot, between his instep and the root of his toes making a very ugly wound. The boy managed to get home and Mrs. Hancock and Atkinson were called. They found the wound bleeding profusely, but after the arteries were tied the boy rested very well, though the wound is exceedingly ugly, and the foot badly swollen. It will depend largely upon the condition of his blood as whether an amputation will be necessary. Carl is a grandson of Mr. P. V. Cundiff, who lives near town, and a nephew of Mr. George E. Wilson, this place. He is the only child of his parents, a splendid boy, and everybody who knows him are interested in his recovery without the loss of his foot.

Met With a Stroke of Paralysis.

Mr. Bruce Preston, a man about forty years old, who recently bought Cap Lewis, farm, attended services at Antioch church, on Sunday the 30th ult. While there he met with a stroke of paralysis, and up to Monday afternoon he had not spoken. He was conveyed to his home and his friends and family trust that he will recover. He is a good citizen, a first-class farmer, the character of men the county needs.

Fell Dead.

Mr. Luther Willis, who lived near Gradyville, one of Adair's best and substantial citizens, dropped dead, on his farm, last Monday, about the noon hour. His death cast a gloom over the entire community, as he was enterprising, and a man who had the utmost confidence of the people. He leaves a wife and several children, who have the sympathy of every body who knew the deceased.

Jim Duncan, a colored boy who lives out of town, was met by five or six other boys, of his race, who live in town, out on the pike, last Thursday. Gunning opened up and a fight followed, the country boy getting a lick on the head, inflicted with a rock. The crowd came on to town and the fight was renewed, the country boy mopping the whole lay out. It is said We did not see the mixing.

The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., of Akron, has its own plantation of 18,000 acres in Sumatra where it grows thousands of tons of cultivated crude rubber every year. On its 20,000 acre plantation in Arizona it produces a high grade of long staple cotton which is woven into fabric at its cotton mills in Goodyear, Conn. Sold by Buchanan Lyon Co.

Married in Georgia.

The many friends of Mrs. Pinkie Davis, who was a saleslady in Mr. W. I. Ingram's store for several years, will be glad to learn that she was happily married to Mr. Geo. W. Maddox, a prominent and an influential merchant and planter of Rockledge, Ga., last Sunday.

The bride's maiden name was Jeffries, and she is a sister of Mr. O. G. Jeffries, the proprietor of the Jeffries Hotel, this place. Her mother, Mrs. Omer Jeffries, resides in Columbia. The bride's first husband, who was also a Southern gentleman, died a number of years ago. Mrs. Maddox is a very modest lady, born and reared within a few miles of Columbia, and from a girl up she was popular with all who had the pleasure of knowing her. Her husband is to be congratulated upon winning one of Kentucky's best young women, one who sprung from an excellent family.

The people of this place, and the editor of the News, who has known her from girlhood, send their best wishes.

Editor News

This is to offer an apology for being remiss in my correspondence. I was in Wilson county of this State, 280 miles from home, and was principal of a three-teacher school. All went well until we had a visitation of flu, to which all the teachers, most of pupils and patrons fell victims. This developed, in my case, weakness of heart and symptoms of appendicitis. While bad enough it could have been worse; and I reconcile myself to the inevitable. When my three soldier sons returned alive from the war; albeit one wounded, I promised myself and an overruling Providence that the short time I have to live should not be spent in repining; and I propose to keep the pledge. At present I am on road to restoration of health; and feel that I have much for which to be grateful.

My sojourn into Wilson county N. C., was a source of pleasure in some respects, and certainly educative. This is where the finest of tobacco flourishes and affords princely sums of revenue. I was reared in a tobacco patch, but tobacco selling at from $1 to $2 a pound was a price beyond my most sanguine expectations. This was also within realm of King Cotton, and more than a bale is produced to the acre. Sweet potatoes yield 400 bushels to the acre, and watermelons attain a weight of 85 pounds. Corn yields from 7 to 10 barrels to the acre, wheat, 35 bushels, oats 60; and land is level and free of stones. But if anybody asks if they use commercial fertilizer; be sure to tell them I said, yes. Mr. J. R. Mercer, the man with whom I boarded, used 45 200 pound sacks on plantbeds alone; and near 500 sacks on crops of corn, cotton and tobacco. This land sells at from $200 to $500 an acre; and continues to rise in value. The people exemplify true southern hospitality, have plenty to eat, good houses and furnishings; but no Kentuckian likes a desolate-looking pine region filled with swamps; and where the creeks are black as ink, or yellow as copperas. A stream six inches deep, the bottom is invisible; and a stranger trying to cross these swamps runs risk of being in a quagmire waist deep; and nobody but a native could extricate him. These swamps are lurking-places of malarial germs, and the abiding place of the mosquito. However, the general health is good, and chills are not so common as you would expect. But the population do not attain the size and stalwart proportions of the citizenship of Adair county, Kentucky, nor Cleveland county, N. C. Many of them are of French extraction, while the mountaineers where I live are Scotch, Irish, Germans and English; all types of the stalwart Anglo-Saxon. Four of my sons are six-footers, and I am 5 ft. 10 in. in my socks; or was when a young man; and weigh 200. Hence I was considered a large man there; while I have several neighbors who tower considerably above 6 feet, and weigh 215 to 250.

In this region, fancy prices of cotton and tobacco have placed much cash in circulation; and the volatile French want a good time. Fine clothing, fine jewelry, costly cars, horse races, hunting and other extravagant cavalier pursuits cause a prodigal expenditure of the living green. In this climate girls mature early; and many of them marry at from 14 to 16 years of age. Of course this is water on wheel of the divorce; but that seems to be the case everywhere. My business is teaching; then girls especially, are bright and vivacious; but with the merciful French temperament. My term was for seven months, although sickness on my part prevented my finishing the term. A girl entered my room at 14, in short dresses; and was a runaway bride after school had progressed something over 6 months. Her mother had become a bride at 14; and as this was a common occurrence, nobody thought much about it, except to say she might have done better. Doing better, in matrimonial parlance, always means wedding more money. An ape-faced idiot with a bank account is a more eligible chance anywhere in Christendom than principle, integrity and talent united with poverty. When you hear an old match-making mother say, "If a feller is honest and industrious I don't keer how pore he is"; she is an old liar or needs boring for the simples.

The New Way To Put Iron in the Blood

The highest medical authorities have always taught that iron was the best tonic for the blood and all agree on its great medicinal value. The trouble is that many pills and tonics said to contain iron are not to be relied upon. So that those who wish to take iron as a medicine may have a reliable source of information this announcement is made.

Quick Results Noted

The new way to restore iron to the blood—the surest and most dependable of all methods—is through the use of Acid Iron Mineral. This is a natural form of soluble iron—it is not prepared artificially by chemists like most medicinal iron, but is found in Nature itself, combined with other highly beneficial remedial agents. The story of the discovery of this new form of iron reads almost like a fairy tale and medical science has proved in thousands of cases its remarkable blood-making powers.

Acid Iron Mineral may be procured in liquid form at any drug store. It contains no alcohol or injurious drugs and will not blacken the teeth. It has been especially noted that pale, puny children, weak, run-down persons and those enfeebled by age show improvement and exhibit increased strength almost immediately after starting treatment.

GAIT VARIES WITH SPECIES

It May Truthfully Be Said That No Two Animals or Birds Walk Exactly Alike.

The horse strikes his gait with a cheerful, steady and strong step; the cow is uncertain in its moving, loitering and lagging in its gait. "The lowing herd winds slowly o'er the lea." The ass trudges, and keeps a dull eye on the earth as it journeys along. The sheep trots, and bleats as it passes, while the goat springs aloft almost heedless of its footing. The gait of birds on the level varies a great deal. There is a sort of majestic carriage in the rook, stepping over a crumbling furrow. The red-footed pigeon trips it daintily; the heron stands, as if to think, and moves with stateliness within its narrow bounds. The dog casts a careless foot, scattering dust or mud without thought; while the cat advances a dainty paw, as if distrustful of the ground. The hen scratches, and pauses to look round, as if bewildered; while the peacock lifts its foot with seeming pride, and as if the earth were honored by its moving upon it at all. The pig takes ground anyhow, and without heeding, turning about, careless whether right or wrong. The little mouse scurries across the common path with something of the passivity of a blown leaf; while the rat assumes the ground to be its own possession, and prowls about with confidence and unconcern. Of all animals the hare bounds upon the earth as upon its heritage, and breathes it the whole day long. As Wordsworth noted, the hare "runs races in its mirth."

LAMB THAT GREW ON TREE

According to the Talmud, Remarkable Plant Furnished Food for Our Very Remote Ancestors.

How often is the wish expressed that money grew on trees? Why not wish for lamb to grow that way, for according to the Latin translation of the Talmud of Jerusalem, that ancient book of law and customs, wonderfully tender and eatable lambs did grow on trees.

This work, remarks a writer in the New York Evening Sun, tells of a plant called the Jeduah, which was formed like a lamb. From a bunch of rather coarse, thick leaves there issued steam on which the zoophyte grew, so the story goes. In every respect it was formed like an animal suspended on a stalk within the radius of which it grazed. It devoured all the herbage which it was able to reach within the circle of its tether, and then unless some overventurous animal came near enough for it to snatch the lamb would die of starvation.

Our remote ancestors hunted the lamb at great risk, for historians tell us that the lamb had not earned its reputation for gentleness then. It was extremely ferocious, especially if it had exhausted its provender. The only way to overcome it was to cut the stem by well-aimed darts or arrows sent from a safe distance. Once the stem was severed the animal fell to the earth soon to die, and the successful hunter could safely come forth to carry his game back to his cave home.

Slaves in 1756.

Slavery existed in nearly all of the English colonies from an early period until shortly before or soon after the Revolutionary war, and the African trade was openly tolerated by the British government. In 1756 there were 292,000 slaves in the colonies, scattered from New England to Georgia. Slavery was not prohibited in Massachusetts until 1780, nor in Vermont until 1777. The United States census of 1810 showed 310 slaves in Connecticut, 10,851 in New Jersey, 15,017 in New York, 795 in Pennsylvania and 108 in Rhode Island. Slavery was gradually abolished in the northern states, but in 1820 there were still 97 slaves in Connecticut, 7,557 in New Jersey, 10,808 in New York, 211 in Pennsylvania and 48 in Rhode Island. The census of 1830 showed the disappearance of slavery in all the northern states except in New Jersey, which still had 236.—Indianapolis News.

Immense Rubies.

An immense ruby, weighing 400 carats, is reported to have been found in Burmah, but it was broken into three pieces, and the report is that one of them was sold uncut in Calcutta for $233,333. A fine ruby, known as "Grogga Bok," or the Dragon Lord, weighed 45 carats in the rough, 22 carats after the cutting process, and was said to be the finest of its size ever seen. In 1897 a stone of 49 carats was found and in 1890 one of 364 carats, according to Bauer, who treats the discovery of the 400-carat stone previously mentioned as simply an unverified report.—Philadelphia Ledger.

"The Father of Jest."

"The Father of Jest" is Joseph Miller, an English comedian, who was born in 1684 and died at London in 1738. The collection of jests known as "Joe Miller's Jest" appeared originally in 1739 as "Joe Miller's Jest Book. Or the Wit's Vade Mecum, etc." It was made by John Mortley and received its name unwarrantably from Joseph Miller. It was popularly said that Joe Miller never made up a joke in his life and could neither read nor write. Most jests are now known as a "Joe Miller" from the fact that it is supposed to have been some time emanated from his source.

MOTHER SAW TRUTH AT ONCE

No Use Telling Her That Her Boy Had Made a Success in the World of Art.

He was a pianist, scarcely out of his teens. He had been sent abroad by wealthy friends for a four-years' course in his chosen art; had thereafter spent a year on the concert stage, and behind 200 or 300 newspaper reports of his success abroad he was now coming home.

When his train drew into the station and came to a stop the pianist, evincing the artistic temperament in his hair as well as in his manner, descended to the platform. At the same time the crowd of enthusiastic townspeople drew aside to allow his proud mother to be the first to welcome her son.

When she reached him, however, she gave a gasp and stood stock-still staring at him. The next moment she burst into sobs and fell on his neck.

"Henry!" the good woman cried. "They told me you were doing so well over there and makin' money plentiful. My poor boy!"

"What's the matter, mother?" exclaimed the bewildered son. "What makes you doubt what they told you?"

"Oh, Henry!" she cried, unappeased. "I can see how you've suffered. You haven't even been able to scrape enough money together to get your hair cut!"

DO BRUTES' SPIRITS RETURN?

Abundance of Testimony Seeming to Prove That Ghosts of Animals Have Been Seen.

With such quantities of spirits running around loose, why not a few representing departed animals?

There is plenty of testimony indorsing animal ghosts. In India there are ghost elephants and ghost tigers that haunt the jungle. And natives of that country are restrained from abusing animals by a belief that the phantom of any mistreated creature will surely come back to bring misfortune to the offender.

Andrew Lang quotes a well-known naval officer as speaking of an occasion when the latter was visiting at the country house of a friend and a well-known bark was heard outside the door of the room where the two men sat.

"Why, there's old Peter," said the officer.

"Peter died since you were here last," replied his friend.

A fox terrier that was in the room whined and trembled violently. The door was pushed open and the pad-pad of a big dog's feet on the floor was heard. No dog was seen, but the invisible ghost of one walked to the hearthrug, shook itself and then flung itself heavily down, the jingle of its collar being distinctly audible.

A Whole League in Himself.

This puzzle in nationality has the marines guessing.

Louis C. Minette, accepted for enlistment in the United States marine corps at Tulsa, Okla., said that his mother was an American who married a Frenchman in Italy. He was born on a ship flying the Spanish colors while lying in the English channel. At the age of five his parents died in Sweden and he was adopted by a German who brought him to the United States. His adopted father is not a naturalized citizen.

"Would you class him as 'The Man Without a Country'?" the recruiting sergeant was asked.

"Man without a country nothing!" said the sergeant. "I'd class him as a League of Nations."

Feeding for Good Teeth.

The soon defective teeth of the adult are due in a great measure, according to an authority on dentistry, to the faulty kind of food given to children. Food which requires mastication tends to develop the gums and salivary glands, while the practice of giving too much liquid food causes narrow jaws, weakens the gums and mars physical beauty. The same authority continues: "Thin, small jaws consequent on liquid diet, do not furnish room enough to accommodate the teeth even were the blood supply sufficient—the teeth thus crowded falling to receive adequate nourishment—a most potent cause of defect in the enamel, and caries follows."

Gold and Religion.

Gold was used for most part as a useful metal; for decoration and ornament; but it was often associated with religious thought. According to the Inca belief, an egg of copper fell from heaven from which sprang the nobility; and after a longer period an egg of gold fell from which issued the Inca. Among the Chocos of Colombia, an important idol of gold was worshipped and slaves were sacrificed to it at certain seasons of the year. The idol represented a woman, who was once human and gave birth to a child who became the creator.—Exchange.

State Has Had Nine Capitals.

The first complete report made in connection with the Raleigh and Wake county community study shows that the state of North Carolina has had nine capitals as follows: Bath, Edenton, Brunswick, Wilmington, Newbern, Hillsboro, Smithfield, Fayetteville and Raleigh. The reason for so many lay in the custom, prior to 1791, of transferring the seat of government to the place of residence of the governor or to the temporary meeting place of the assembly.

What's become of the prejudice against automobiles because they frightened the horses

NOW cars are everywhere. The horses have gotten used to them—and so has everybody else. Think of it! This year the American people will spend nearly a billion dollars on tires alone.

Tires are one of the biggest items on the car owner's bills.

Hardly a Saturday, when you motorists drop in to "tune up" for a Sunday trip, that one or more of you doesn't tell us something of value to our business. Sooner or later it comes back to you in Service.

Service is what the car owners of this community are looking for nowadays.

And especially the small car owners, who put service first in figuring their motor-ing expenditures.

Just because a man has a moderate-price car is no reason why he should get any less service out of his tires.

We believe that the man with the small car is entitled to just as good tire service as the man with the big car—and both are entitled to the best tire service they can get.

That's why we represent U. S. Tires in this community.

And why more car owners—large and small—are coming to us every day for U. S. Tires.

Come in and talk to us about tires. We're here to help you get the kind of tires you want.

Summit, Illinois.

Adair County News: As it has been some time since I wrote to The News, I will try and write a few lines.

Summit is a nice place and has a nice park. It is only one mile from Argo, the place where I am now employed. I have a very good job. Pays me 59 1/2 cents per hour. There are several Kentucky people here and all like their work, and like their booze too, for there is plenty of it here. If the amendment to the constitution was voted on here, it did not pass, for there is as much booze here as there ever was in Kentucky. People, it looks very bad to see a man that is working at four dollars per day, go in the saloon and pay fifty cents for a spoonful of whisky, when his table needs bread, but I am sorry to say you see it here.

We are only ten miles from Chicago and I have been in the city a few trips. I had the pleasure of seeing the big store of Sears, Roebuck. Mr. Roy Garmon bought him a home in Argo. Wishing the News and all its readers good luck and also hoping to see a letter from Sparksville every week in The News.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOR CONGRESS.

We are authorized to announce
RALPH GILBERT, of Shelby county, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in this, the Eighth Congressional District of Kentucky.
State Primary Election Saturday,
August 7, 1920.

We are authorized to announce
FRANK L. RIPPY, of Anderson County, a Democratic candidate for Congress, in the Eighth district, subject to the action of the State primary August 7, 1920.

FOR UNITED STATES SENATOR.

We are authorized to announce Hon.
Richard P. Ernst, of Kenton county, a Republican candidate for U. S. Senator. Primary first Saturday in August.

The present expensive Congress adjourned sine die last Saturday. Amen! and Amen!

No chance for liquor. The Supreme Court sustains the Volstead Amendment.

To-day the big Republican Convention is on in Chicago.
It is the general opinion that Lowden, of Illinois, will be nominated. If not him, a dark horse.

John W. Davis, ambassador to England, is coming to the front and it is very probable that he will be nominated for the Presidency at the San Francisco Convention. He hails from West Virginia, and is a strong personal friend of President Wilson.

The Bonus bill passed the House, the vote being 289 for, 92 against. It is given out that the measure will die in the Senate. We believe that the boys who helped to win the war are entitled to all the pay that may be voted to them, but we think the framer of this bill set his hoe a little too digging for it to become a law and be beneficial to the veterans.

Three United States Judges,
Judge Walter Evans being one of the number, have decided that a 50 cents tax on bonded whisky is unconstitutional. The decision was unanimous. The "wets" are persistent in their fight for a modification of the prohibition laws, but up to this time they have not made any real headway.

At a conference held by Homer Cummings and President Wilson, at the White House, last Tuesday, it was decided that the name of the President would not be put before the San Francisco Convention as a candidate for the third term, but Mr. Wilson's policies would be enunciated in the platform adopted. According to this statement the League of Nations will be threshed out before the people of the United States.

George R. Holmes, of the International News Service, gives the following line up, on the first ballot, at the Chicago Republican Convention: Gen.
Wood, 270; Johnson, 200; Low-den, 175; Butler, New York, 85;
Knox, 70; Harding, 50; Coolidge
Massachusetts, 20; Poindexter,
Washington, 20; Allen, Kansas, 20; Pritchard, North Carolina,
20. Totals, 910. Scattering, 24.
Total, 984, necessary to nominate, 493.

"Proctor and Gamble" has long been a household phrase in America, used in connection with washing soiled linen. Now the Senate Investigating Committee in doing some laundry for the Republican party has discovered that Proctor's great interest in General Wood's campaign, to which the soap-making has already advanced the modest sum of $500,000, we wonder if the astute Hitchcock will make the claim that the General represents the great "unwashed" people of America.

The Senate Committee investigating the campaign expenses of the various candidates for the Presidential nominations has done a real service to the Country. It has revealed the fact that the control of the Republican party, which through Mark Hanna in 1896 became intimately identified with big business has not since been redeemed. It shows Governor Lowden expend-ing nearly a half a million dollars and General Wood expend-ing at least twice as much in order to put their claims to preference before their party, as if statesmanship were a thing to be exploited through channels of paid publicity, like patent medicines or a new brand of soft drink. That any man must, or that any man is willing to, spend a half million dollars, whether of his own or other people's money, merely to secure the nomination of his party, is a sad commentary. If it affected the nomination only, the country at large would not be so much interested; but such a practice cannot but have a demoralizing effect on the purity of elections. It cannot but make the people dissatisfied and distrustful when they are given every reason to believe that it takes a syndicate of moneyed men to select a new President, just as it takes a syndicate to float a combination in high finance. Must our President be a millionaire or one who will make interesting it to millionaires to back up his ambition?
We have long since been accustomed to the man seeking the office instead of the office seeking the man; are we now entering an era of President-making when a coterie of over-rich men will bring out their favorite and put him over by sheer force of organization and publicity? Unless we greatly misjudge the temper of the people, the disclosures now being made will cause a mighty protest before election day, in which every thoughtful person who loves his country, will join; for if the Presidency of America can be secured by tactics so nearly allied to the auction-block game, we are all in for an Armageddon.

There is no telling how many acres of tobacco were set in Adair county last week. Growers were setting day was in securing hands. P. V. Cundiff thirty men and boys doing the work.

The price for hands, during the sea-ness to work. Many other growers

MANY ROADS TO KNOWLEDGE

For instance, Impudent Fake Resulted In Opening Up the Field of Electro-Therapy.

Along the road that leads to knowledge are scattered many fake-shops, which as a rule do a flourishing and profitable business. For the chief weakness of the human mind is credulity.

But by curious paradox, the foolishness factories every now and then produce something that proves of substantial usefulness to science.

For example, in New England many years ago a man named Perkins invented what he called a "magnetic tractor," for drawing diseases out of folk. It was shaped like a pair of compasses, with one leg of silver and the other of copper. When the two points were passed over the afflicted part of the body the instrument was supposed by some electrical means to alleviate or cure the trouble.

The "tractors" undoubtedly did benefit many people; also Perkins, who sold them for $5 apiece. They made such a sensation that scientists took the matter up, investigating it thoroughly and proving that imagination did the work. Blindfolded persons were relieved of pain by the contact of a couple of pointed sticks of wood, which they mistook for the instrument in question.

The whole business was plain foolishness. Nevertheless, the interest it awakened led to the first opening up of the field of electro-therapy, discoveries of which have proved of such immense importance to medical science.

WAS AHEAD OF HIS TIME

Peter Heulein, Who Made the First Watch, Accused of Witchcraft and Thrown Into Prison.

There is in existence today a letter dated April 22, 1527, from Martin Luther to Father Frederick Pistorius, the last abbot of St. Aegidius in Nuremberg, in which he thanks the abbot for the gift of a watch, and adds: "I feel compelled to become a pupil of our mathematicians in order to understand this unique timekeeper." Never before had he seen such an object.

As he was familiar with clocks, what he meant, evidently, was that the time indicators on the clock were different from those on the watch which had been given to him. It is quite probable he had in his possession the first watch made by Peter Heulein, or at least one of his first ones. This Peter Heulein was a blacksmith and locksmith and devoted his time to mathematics and watchmaking, for which he was thrown into prison charged with witchcraft, which was then one of the easy ways of disposing of a rival or of a person who did things out of the ordinary.

But Peter persevered, and the name of Heulein and Nuremberg is preserved by a monument in his native town.

New Bells Made Like Old.

We have often heard of the beautiful silver tone of very old church bells in Europe and some have even been bought at a great price and brought to America. It was supposed that after a bell had rung regularly for one or two centuries some mysterious quality was developed, and the beautiful tone could be acquired in no other way. An ingenious American studied the problem, however, and decided that the silver tone was simply due to the fact that the clapper of the bell had worn itself and the bell by continued striking, until the two fit closely together and that the shape of the metal and nothing else determined the tone. He began to make bells by casting them so that the clapper and the bell fit each other properly, and the mellow silver tone was obtained at once. Today we are manufacturing such bells and selling them abroad.—Boys' Life.

Worry Really Wicked.

Worry is really an evidence of lack of self-confidence and of faith in the power that runs the universe. It is a lack of faith in the power that, provided you do your part, will always bring things out better than you possibly could by yourself alone. Why should you worry, why should you fear, why should you be anxious, when God's vision and omnipotence are always ready to guide and serve you?

There never has been an instant in your life, my friend, which you could have safeguarded or provided for with a thousandth part of the wisdom with which God has guarded and provided for it. It is really a reflection upon him to be anxious about the future, to dread poverty and sickness, to worry about your business, to fear failure in your undertaking.—Orison Swett Marden in Chicago News.

Fierce Apparitions.

In the West Indies a sight of the "rolling calf" presages death or terrible misfortunes. The negroes are dreadfully afraid of possible encounter with it at night. It is white, of enormous size and with eyes that blaze like hot coals.

William Thorp, a learned student of such manifestations, writes of a phantom shark that haunts the waters about Nassau, in the Bahamas, where it is known as the "harbor master." It shines with a weird phosphorescent glow even in the daytime, and though hooked on many occasions and pulled in, it invariably vanishes from view at the last moment.—Daily Morning News.

CLAIMS A GREAT DISCOVERY

Englishman Convinced That In Un-cooked Vegetables and Fruit He Has Found Ideal Fare.

"It is an entirely erroneous idea that human beings derive their energy from food," says Mr. William Aird of Sompington, Sussex, England, who claims that he lives like the hares and squirrels.

"Each human being," he contends, "has a certain capital amount of energy which can be spent slowly or rapidly, but cannot be supplemented."

Mr. Aird is an engineer. Formerly he suffered from very bad health, but after six years of experimenting in dieting came to the conclusion that uncooked fruit and vegetables formed ideal fare. Today, although nearly fifty, he claims the feelings of a boy of eighteen.

"When I searched for the means of health," he says, "I studied the wild animals on the Sussex downs. So certain am I that I have found the true path of life, that I am willing to be inoculated with smallpox, cancer, plague, anthrax, tuberculosis, or any disease you care to mention. I am sure that germs would not live in my body."

"I offered to undergo the test in a London hospital, but the surgeons would not take the risk. This offer still holds good, and if it is not accepted I shall probably inoculate myself in public."

UNIQUE SCHEME OF REVENGE

Sardonic Humor In Tale of How Frenchman "Got Even" With His Fellow-Citizens.

A quaint short story by Rodolphe Bringer, a marvel of French brevity, appeared not long ago in L'Humanite. It is called "The Benefactor's Revenge," and the tale is of a millionaire in a small town who was plucked because he was not elected mayor. Presently he died, partly of annoyance. The funeral was magnificent, but the townsfolk did not attend. They distrusted the millionaire. Imagine the shock of pleasure, then, when they learned that he had bequeathed 3,000,000 francs to the municipality! It was given on condition that the town should undertake to nourish and sustain all the poor, without distinction of age, sex or nationality, who lived within its boundaries. At once the popularity of the deceased took a tremendous jump. A philanthropist; he had been misjudged. A pedestal was prepared for his statue. Today the pedestal still remains uncrowned. A town that was hard working and unknown to poverty and misery became the mecca for all the scamps in France. Since the day on which the will was proclaimed tramps, rogues and apaches have not ceased to pour through its gates. At last it awoke to the dark intention of its benefactor.—Boston Post.

"Knights of the Hammer."

Some folks always see things through indigo glasses. Neither reason nor evidences of success can change the hue. Everything is on the road to ruin and the talk is the kind that drops the bottom out of a fellow's ambitions. The only way to get peace when they are around is to keep them so busy that they do not have time to use the hammer. If you can keep their minds off themselves there is a chance to have some good work from them. They are often skillful enough if you can only get them busy. And as long as you can keep them busy they have no time to think about themselves. And you may be one of those folks. If you are, get busy and stay busy. It's the only way to be happy and fair with your fellowmen.—Grit.

Adhesive From Snails.

Many of the larger kinds of snails have at the extremity of their bodies small white bladders filled with a gelatinous substance. It has been discovered that this is the strongest adhesive known for the repairing of porcelain, glass, etc. The substance is applied thinly to both sides of the fracture and the broken piece is tied firmly together so that all is held in place. A rather longer time for drying should be given than in the case of ordinary adhesives so as to allow the natural glue to acquire the greatest degree of strength. When it is once really set the tenacity of this remarkable adhesive is astonishing.—Scientific American.

Appreciated Cooper's Work.

The first American novel to win popularity outside our own language is said to have been James Fenimore Cooper's "Spy." Cooper had to publish it at his own expense, as no American publisher would accept it. It was quickly translated into French, German and Spanish, and later was published in thirty-four different places in Europe. Cooper translations are often better literature than the original, as the best elements of the story are not lost in translation and many stylistic defects disappear in the hands of a literary translator.

Doubtful Testimonial.

"I don't know whether to accept this testimonial or not," mused the hair restorer man. "What's the matter with it?" demanded the advertising manager. "Well," explained the boss, "the man writes: 'I used to have three spots on the top of my head, but since using a bottle of your hair restorer I have only one.'"—London Times.

STOMACH TROUBLE

Mr. Marion Holcomb, of Nancy, Ky., says: "For quite a long while I suffered with stomach trouble. I would have pains and a heavy feeling after my meals, a most disagreeable taste in my mouth. If I ate anything with butter, oil or grease, I would spit it up. I began to have regular sick headache. I had used pills and tablets, but after a course of these, I would be constipated. FORCED TO BECOME PIRATE

Great-Grandfather of President Fillmore Coerced Into Sailing Under the Black Flag.

John Fillmore, great-grandfather of Millard Fillmore, the thirteenth president of the United States, was a pirate, though he was a pirate in spite of himself. The story begins with the first quarter of the eighteenth century, when the freebooters, Bluebeard, Low and Phillips, swept the Atlantic coast from Jamaica to Newfoundland. Phillips captured the Dolphin of Cape Ann, a vessel commanded by Andrew Harriden.

Harriden discovered among the pirates' crew two young men, John Fillmore and Edward Cheesman, whom Phillips had captured and made pirates against their will. They had determined either to escape from the pirate's clutches or to capture his vessel and bring him and his crew to justice. They fixed an appointed hour for making the attempt at escape, after reaching an agreement with Harriden.

The signal was given when only three were on deck, one of whom was Phillips. One of the men was thrown overboard, and the other two were killed. This was done while the crew was below in the hold of the ship. The captors then sprang into the hold and placed the rest of the crew in chains, steered the vessel for Boston, and arrived there May 3, 1724. Two of the pirates were hanged, while Fillmore, Cheesman and his confederates were acquitted.

FORESEE APPROACH OF DEATH

Writer Tells of Instances Where Animals Evidently Sensed Dissolution and Feared It.

I am perplexed at the way in which the lower animals sometimes have a premonition of death and fear it, while at other times they appear to be perfectly indifferent to death.

I have known a dog to beg not to be taken on a railway journey, when usually he used to dance about with delight when he saw these preparations being made. On the occasion on which he exhibited distress he slipped off the platform, was run over and killed.

I have known a horse who was a very free jumper refuse obstinately a small fence and, when his rider forced him over it the horse broke his back.

A bullfinch—not a pet, but merely one of a caged of birds—dropped down screaming; I took him out and so long as he lay in my hand he was quite quiet, but he screamed if I attempted to put him back on some cotton wool. He lay in my hand for a quarter of an hour and died quite quietly.

I have had a horse refuse to pass under a tree under which he had passed every day for years. It was a perfectly calm day. I drove him round the tree, and as I did so a big branch fell upon exactly the spot on which we would have been if I had not let the horse go round.—From the Continental Edition of the London Mail.

Must Earn Nature's Favors.

Nature will not reveal her beauty, her joy, her splendor, her magnificence or her sublimity to the selfish or the hurried soul. She thinks too much of her great treasures of marvelous mystery to fling them out to the penurious, greedy, hurried human being, to the casual eye, to those who are rushing along at railroad speed. No one can successfully woo and win her, who is not willing to study her, take time to observe her, and listen to her voice. She tells her secrets, reveals her mysteries and beauties only to those who know how to wait, who take time to think, to ponder; to those who can appreciate and love these things well enough to spend time with her.—Orison Swett Marden in Chicago News.

No High Cost of Clothing Here.

When a hole is worn in tapa cloth it is only necessary to moisten the edges and beat them together. Tapa cloth was once woven or pounded into shape in many parts of the South Sea Islands. It is made of the barks of the banana, breadfruit or mulberry. The rough outer bark is first scraped off and the inner fibers are beaten together and allowed to ferment. So fine is the texture of the cloth that one would never imagine it had been prepared in this crude manner. It is bleached to a dazzling white color in the sun, and when made into garments is practically indestructible.—Boys' Life.

Manhattan in the Indian Tongue.

We had a sad shock the other day when we learned from one of our learned clients that Manhattan, in the Indian tongue, is said to mean "The place where they all get drunk." According to William Loring Andrews' book, "The Bradford Map" (1893), shown by James F. Drake, the native name was coined in happy memory of the greatly regrettable revel that transpired when Peter Minuit (we think it was) put over his deal with the Indians with the aid of a flagon of schnapps. We trust Mr. Anderson will take immediate steps to have the name of the island changed.—Christopher Morley in New York Evening Post.

"I told Jiggers that if he kept on indulging in that absurd fad of his he would be stung."

COUNTRY OF MIXED RACES

Best Qualities of Three Great Peoples Declared Mingled in the Dwellers in Alsace.

As we came out of the square (at St. Amarin) little boys were bringing in armfuls of wood for their school-room stoves; others were already noisily scampering home for dinner in the crisp, sawdusty air; straight columns of smoke from many chimneys evoked women standing about nooday fires; there was a homely human feeling about it all.

As I went through the school it seemed to me that the types of the children were modified in two ways, inclining now toward the elongated head, with pointed chin, dark hair, dark eyes and mantling color; now toward the round-headed, square-jawed, blond type, with full, dreamy, blue eyes. But under these modifications one felt that there was a persistent something, that was their own, neither German nor French nor anything else, for all the mingling; the Alsatian root and stem, with an inalienable, peculiar life mounting in it, its very own, its race gift.

And this essential gift, this rich, diverse inheritance, had been received from each point of the compass. From the south, through the defiles of the Alps, the Great Latin traditions had infiltrated. From the north and east had come Germanic thought, with its mystical reactions, its metaphysical inclinations, its marvelous legends, and its romantic chronicles of gods and half gods. From the west, from Gaul, came grace and courtesy and the deathless wish for liberty. Was ever a people more richly endowed?—From "Alsace in Rust and Gold," by Edith O'Shaughnessy.

WITCHES FEARED IN OHIO

Early Settlers Had Strong Belief in Their Power to Work Harm in the Community.

Belief in witchcraft was not uncommon among the early white settlers in Ohio, and domestic animals which were claimed to have been taken possession of by witches were sometimes burned alive in order to bring an end to the evil practice of witches. It was held that witches could not be exterminated in any other way.

Howe's Ohio history records a story of this kind, said to be on the records of the common pleas court of Lawrence county. The story was brought out in the trial of a claim for imposition in a horse sale in 1828. The purchaser claimed that he had been cheated, that the horse, instead of being sound, was sick when sold to him, and died soon afterward.

The defendant who had sold the horse claimed that the animal was not sick, but was bewitched, and in support of his contention told of a cow in the same neighborhood that had been bewitched. The owner of the cow was convinced of the fact, and to make sure that the witch would not take possession of other animals in the neighborhood, had tied the cow to a tree and with the assistance of neighbors, burned her there alive, much to the relief of settlers in the vicinity, who seem generally to have been believers in witchcraft.

Vishnu in Mythology.

Vishnu is the second god in the Hindu triad. When he first appears in Vedic times, he is simply the god of the shining firmament, the younger brother of Indra, and inferior to him in dignity. The higher rank was accorded to him by later writers. The Brahmanic myths relating to Vishnu are characterized by the idea that whenever great physical or moral disorder affected the world, Vishnu descended in a small portion of his essence to set it right. He is generally represented as having four arms, each hand holding some particular object, and as riding on a being half man and half beast. His most enthusiastic followers are generally drawn from the middle classes of Hindu society. His mark on their foreheads is a trident, with a yellow prong in the center and a white one on each side.

Sweetie's Last Call.

I had an appointment with my best beau on a rainy evening, and as I knew that because of the weather our evening would be spent in the movies I put up my hair in curlers, thinking that my tam would be enough camouflage. The tam was already in place when sweetie arrived, and off we went. It was warm in the show and without thinking, I slipped the tam off. Can you imagine my embarrassment when the light went on and my sweetie turned to gaze on my natural curly hair and was confronted with a head full of curlers sticking up at different angles? He never came again.—Exchange.

The Art of Pleasing.

The desire of pleasing makes a man agreeable or unwelcome to those with whom he converses, according to the motive from which that inclination appears to flow. If your concern for pleasing others arises from an innate benevolence, it never fails of success; if from a vanity to excel, its disappointment is no less certain. What we call an agreeable man, is he who is endowed with that natural bent to do acceptable things from a delight he takes in them merely as such; and the affection of that character is what constitutes a fop.—Richard Steele.

 place. They report Texas a fine country and that all Kentuckians who are located in that section are getting along finely, with plenty of this world's goods laid up for a rainy day.

The wheat in this section is looking rather badly.

First cherries brought in last week were sold at 60 cents per gallon. The next man disposed of his lot at 50 cents, and the third man sold at 40 cents. The crop is large and they will evidently sell for less than 40 cents this week. Ten gallons of cherries after they are seeded will make about six pounds of preserves. The amount of sugar to be used, at the present price, will make your preserves cost about $1.50 per pound.
